CHIEF RACE ENGINEER

The company is looking for a Chief Race Engineer.

The candidate will be responsible for the following activities:

- The Chief Race Engineer will have the responsibility to create and setup the Race Engineering department at YCOM.
- He will be responsible for managing the group and leading the technical expertise of the engineers to create, prepare and deliver test plan of complete vehicle development programs
- He will work within the team to collectively develop the engineering capability and knowledge of the team.
- He will be responsible for people evaluation within his team, developing people growth plan and for the Race Engineering department hires (in coordination with Human Resources department).
- He will be responsible, within his allocated budget, for defining and maintaining race engineering equipment and materials needed to support the above activities.
- He will be responsible for developing, maintaining, and enforcing specific processes and procedures of the Race Engineering department.
- He will directly report to the Chief Technical Officer.

Requirements:

- High-level management and leadership skills with a confidence inspiring communicative approach
- Mechanical Engineering Degree with strong Science, Physics and Data driven background
- Proven track record in high-level Race Engineering experience incl. motorsport complete car development program (testing)
- In-depth knowledge of vehicle dynamics and intervention control systems
- Organizational skills; keeping detailed notes and writing up projected outlines and proposals
- Ability to perform in a dynamic and fast paced environment
- Ability to communicate professionally, both verbally and in writing (English is a must and Italian is a plus)
- Data analysis and simulation software skills
- Ability to think outside the box
- The role may require extensive domestic and international travel and a willingness to work long and flexible hours including weekends.